

MFX and Delphi Technology Announce Strategic Alliance

MORRISTOWN, NJ – October 9, 2013 – MFX, a leading provider of hosted IT applications and outsourcing solutions for the property and casualty insurance industry, has announced a strategic alliance with Delphi Technology, Inc., of Boston, MA. With an excellent policy administration system, Delphi is a market leader in specialized software for medical professional liability, hospital professional liability, professional liability and workers' compensation insurance. This partnership provides MFX's integrated, end-to-end platform with expanded capabilities that will be an excellent fit for most insurers.

"Offering our clients choices is an important focus for MFX, and we work on that constantly," said Raymond A. Roy, CEO of MFX. "Delphi's superb policy administration system adds to the width of our end-to-end suite, and we are pleased to make this available to our insurance clients."

Commenting on the Delphi/MFX strategic partnership, William Moss, Chief Business Development Officer of Delphi, said, "We are delighted to announce this strategic alliance. Commercial specialty insurers are looking to transform their business environments in order to succeed in today's evolving markets. This powerful alliance will offer an unprecedented combination of operational efficiency, agile adaptability and robust functionality for complex insurance operations."
